An Introduction to Audie Murphy’s Military Personnel Files
File #2: Service Documents (July 1953 – June 1971)

These files were obtained under the Freedom of Information Action from the U.S. National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and are public domain.

Each file consists of original scans of each page (front and back) of Audie Murphy's military personnel records, including duplicate pages.

Letters of inquiry and related materials to Audie Murphy's military personnel records have also been included by NARA.

The original NARA PDF file, nearly 500 megabytes in size, has been split into twelve smaller files because of the overall size.

The twelve files, as received from NARA, are ...
1. Service Documents (June 1943 – August 1949)
2. Service Documents (July 1953 – June 1971)
3. Service Record Book
4. Correspondence
5. Awards, Decorations, and Recommendations
6. Efficiency Records
7. Medical Records
8. Auxiliary Material
9. Original Containers
10. Reference Correspondence (August 1972 – September 1979)
11. Reference Correspondence (February 1959 – September 2005)
12. Record of Index Form

All twelve of these files were provided by private benefactors to the Audie Murphy Research Foundation and can downloaded at ...

Dear General Berry:

Thank you for your kind letter of 9 November 1955 pertaining to the granting of a waiver for the promotion of Captain Audie L.
Murphy.

A careful review of his case has been made, and I concur with your remarks concerning the value of Captain Murphy both from a military as well as a public relations standpoint. Accordingly, as a special exception to policy, I have authorized a waiver of service in grade and military education requirements to enable this officer's promotion and Federal recognition in the higher grade.

With kindest personal regards, I remain

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Murphie:

As a Medal of Honor recipient you will become eligible on your fiftieth birthday to have your name entered on the Medal of Honor Roll and to receive the special pension of $100 per month.

The law which authorizes this special pension is Public Law 87-138 approved on 14 August 1961. It amends the Act of 27 April 1916, which established the Medal of Honor Roll, to provide that:

a. Recipients of the Medal of Honor become eligible for enrollment at age 50.

b. Eliminates the requirement of being separated from the service.

c. Increases the special pension from $10 to $100 per month effective 1 September 1961.

The law further provides that to be eligible to receive the special pension, application for enrollment on the Medal of Honor Roll must be initiated by the person to whom the Medal of Honor was awarded. In order to assist you in this regard this office will notify you ninety days in advance of the date on which you will reach your fiftieth birthday, therefore it is most important that you keep this office advised whenever you change your current address. For your convenience there are enclosed self-addressed envelopes requiring no postage and change of address blanks. Please return the one marked inclosure one upon receipt of this letter as this will confirm your present address as now recorded. The other blank should be kept for future use should you change your address.

It is requested that you furnish information listed on the inclosure including the name of your wife if you are married.

Should you have any questions regarding the Medal of Honor Roll please feel free to direct them to this office.

Sincerely yours,

Kenneth G. Wickham

SUBJECT: Screening the Active Status List of the Control Group (Standby)

1. A recent change in regulations provides that non-obligated officers are not eligible for transfer to or retention on the active list of the Standby Reserve unless they:
   a. Have completed 18 qualifying years of service and are being retained to complete 20 years.
   b. Were screened from the Ready Reserve as being key personnel on or before 31 July 1965.
   c. Are temporarily assigned to the Standby Reserve for hardship, illness, or other cogent reasons with the expectation of being returned to the Ready Reserve.

2. This change in regulations renders you ineligible to remain on the active status list of the Standby Reserve. You must, therefore, elect one of the following options:
   a. Transfer to the Ready Reserve with assignment to the Reinforcement Control Group. As a member of this group, you are required to earn 27 retirement points per year to remain in good standing. If you have completed 20 qualifying years for retirement purposes you must earn 50 points per retirement year to remain in the Ready Reserve. As a member of this group, you are eligible to participate in reserve training programs for retirement point credits and promotion purposes.
   b. Transfer to the Inactive status list of the Standby Reserve. As a member of this group, you are not eligible to earn retirement point credits nor are you eligible for promotion. Once assigned, you must serve at least one year before you may apply for return to the active Reserve. Assignment in this status is limited to three years.
   c. Transfer to the Retired Reserve if eligible. The minimum requirements for such transfer are 8 qualifying years (50 or more points each year) and you must be at least 37 years of age.
   d. Resignation from your commission with an honorable discharge.

I elect the following option: Circle One

a. Transfer to the Ready Reserve if otherwise qualified. If transferred, I volunteer to participate in the Ready Reserve program for one year from the date shown below. I understand that if I have completed 20 qualifying years for retirement purposes I must earn 50 retirement points per retirement year to remain in the Ready Reserve. I am immediately available for active duty in the event of mobilization. To the best of my knowledge and belief, I have no medical condition or physical defect that would prevent performance of active military service.

b. Transfer to the inactive status list of the Standby Reserve. I clearly understand that a member of this group is not authorized to participate in reserve duty training for retirement point credits or promotion purposes. I further understand that I must serve at least one year in this group before being eligible for return to the active reserve.

c. Transfer to the Retired Reserve. I understand that the minimum requirements are eight (8) satisfactory years of service (50 points each year) and 37 years of age. If found ineligible, I elect to be discharged.

d. Honorable Discharge. I understand this to be a complete separation from the military service.

Military records of the late Audie Murphy show that he enlisted in the Army of the United States 30 June 1942 and was honorably discharged 13 October 1944 to accept a commission. He was appointed a second lieutenant 14 October 1944 and was released from active duty as a first lieutenant 21 September 1945, and was transferred to the Officers Reserve Corps. He was Federally recognized as captain National Guard of Texas 14 July 1950; as major, 14 February 1956. His status in the National Guard terminated 7 November 1966 by reason of withdrawal of Federal recognition, and he was transferred to the United States Army Reserve.

Audie Murphy served overseas from February 1943 to September 1945. During this time he was authorized the following decorations and awards: Medal of Honor, Distinguished Service Cross; Silver Star with First Oak-Leaf Cluster; Bronze Star Medal with "V" Device and First Oak-Leaf Cluster; Purple Heart with Second Oak-Leaf Cluster; Legion of Merit; Good Conduct Medal; Distinguished Unit Emblem with First Oak-Leaf Cluster; American Campaign Medal; European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Medal with one silver service star, three bronze service stars and one bronze arrowhead; World War II Victory Medal; Combat Infantryman Badge; Marksman Badge with Rifle Bar; Expert Badge with Bayonet Bar; French Fourragere in Colors of the Croix de Guerre; French Legion of Honor, Grade of Chevalier; French Croix de Guerre with silver star; and the Belgian Croix de Guerre 1940 with Palm.
The 11th Infantry Regiment has had the opportunity of watching the progress and developing out of an abandoned and in the grade of Private, was drafted into enter the landing in Italy, and in the midst of the nation's emergency. He qualified for promotion by merit and in addition can look to slow beginning of the Italian Army War, the date of the landing of the United States in Italy. Through to the present, the soldier reaps with the 6th Division, occupying a reserve position in January 1944.

Consistently, Colonel Leonard of the 3rd Battalion, Company B, 11th Infantry, has shown an unparalleled capacity for quick, smooth, and successful execution. A long series of campaigns to his credit, Lieutenant Round has gained the command, self-control, determination and alertness necessary for all with whom he has come in contact. This system is not paid the without justification.

Hit the 11th Infantry Regiment retook at Rome, Italy, Lieutenant Round was a sergeant. Having acquired a distinct notion of the army, Round had studied volunteering as many for patrol duty; or in any other way that would place him in a position to kill the time as quickly as he volunteered. His services were accepted, since even then he had a record of accomplishment to the point of protection whatever mission he undertook.

Not since trench under constant artillery and mortar fire and patrolling extensively approved in the enemy, the mayor in such a position to match our every move and the crest of any contact or reconnaissance group attack hurriedly upon the landing. Lieutenant Round, so active in the presence of the enemy, his positive attitude toward successful accomplishment, and the utmost confidence and respect every man held for him, assured excellent results with anything he undertook.

Not long after the landing in Russia, Lieutenant Round was promoted to the grade of staff sergeant and assumed the duties of platoon sergeant. He continued to maintain his correct position in his platoon, and was more highly thought of by himself. During the 11th Infantry's time at winter quarters, several enemy counterattacks were launched against the 11th Infantry, allegation's positions at Rome, Italy. In the post battle
In these circumstances, Lieutenant John Y. Green moved cautiously. After the attack of the enemy's attack, out flanks were formed and the lines were pulled in a tactical effort to effect a breakthrough. Lieutenant Green, under the terms of his mission, went from one position to another directing the fire of his platoon. He moved to every part of the line. He did not only command his activity to the direction of his men, but continued to drive them in the enemy. When conditions were favorable to his men, he led the platoon. He led everyone to move forward to the enemy. He fired the enemy, using every gun, with skill and accuracy. After the counterattack, the German lines were seen carrying away their casualties in their trucks.

On August 1914, near the River, France, Lieutenant John Y. Green led his platoon over the line,接触 and crossed all German resistance he encountered. While in the lead of his platoon, Lieutenant Green displayed the enemy at every turn of his leadership, his ability at the quick maneuver or his gun, and his ready apprehension of a situation. There were instances during these early days of this campaign where he alone accounted for over an American prisoners a day.

In Australia, France, Lieutenant John Y. Green, in the lead according to his usual practice, led his platoon within seventy-five yards of the enemy before opening fire. He caught the German unawares and forced about sixty yards to abandon their established positions. An German attempted to cover the enemy's withdrawal, but was killed out of action by Lieutenant John Y. Green's mortar fire.

Often times he was obliged to take cover in his platoon leader. At one point, the men, he had his objective to clear a patch of woods. In order to take contact with the enemy, it was necessary to cross an open field. As the platoon moved over this open terrain, the enemy opened up on his men with machine gun and small arm fire, supported by a heavy artillery and mortar concentration. Lieutenant John Y. Green set up his platoon in a defensive position and directed his mortar fire into the enemy lines. Because the enemy ran so well concealed in the patch of woods, Lieutenant John Y. Green had to direct his mortar fire by sound. Nearly seventy-five yards from the enemy, his direction had to be extremely accurate or his own platoon would be endangered. The enemy concentration had its effect, and his platoon moved forward to take its objective. Civilian reports disclosed that at least forty dead Germans had been counted that day as a result of Lieutenant John Y. Green's mortar fire.

At one point again, Lieutenant John Y. Green, still an enlisted man, ran into a German patrol. With his quick, deliberate action, and cunning ability to sense the enemy's movements, he alone, made short work of this situation. He first aimed a bullet between his eyes, advancing toward the remainder of the patrol, firing his carbine as he went, Lieutenant J.R. H. killed three more and caused the enemy remaining to scatter.

Directly after the action in the LT sector, Lieutenant J.R. H. was commended as a good lieutenant, and the prestige and success he acquired as an officer followed in equal measure with his promotion. His men admired his decisions and directions without hesitation, and his and strength did not exist in his platoon, and his capabilities of leadership always assured success.

Wounded during the battle of the Vogeux mountains, Lieutenant J.R. H. joined his platoon again at Dauville, France, just before the liquidation of the German pocket. At Dauville, an enemy machine gun opened fire upon his platoon from its right flank. Lieutenant J.R. H. rapidly exposed to the enemy, ran up to the German emplacement and killed the three men who were operating the weapon.

Lieutenant J.R. H., recently having been promoted to the rank of 1st lieutenant, had in every campaign displayed the qualities in keeping with the very highest traditions of the military service.

MICHAEL HOFFMANN
Lt Col, 39th Infantry
Executive Officer
I am Lieutenant Colonel North J. Cole, commanding officer, 3rd Battalion, 18th Infantry, in this capacity and as 2nd executive officer, and commanding officer of the 1st Battalion, 18th Infantry, and executive officer, 3rd infantry regiment. I acquired personal knowledge of the following services:

Lieutenant John L. Cline, Co. B, 3rd Bn., 18th Infantry, served in Africa, in the rear of infantry. Since that time he has participated in every campaign in which the 18th infantry regiment has been actively engaged. He came into particular prominence during the Allied demonstration operations commencing 13 January 1943, and apriil and later and his service throughout every campaign thereafter, terminating 13 February 1945, when the 3rd division took up a reserve position.

As a sergeant on the small beachhead, Lieutenant Cline's name was attached to a number of missions. Accepted by a constant desire to destroy the enemy, he volunteered for far more than his share of the work, particularly with regard to patrols.

Shortly after the beachhead was established, Lieutenant Cline, then corporal, volunteered to participate in and lead numerous patrols into enemy lines. Moving was particularly difficult on the small beachhead because of the thin terrain, the small area over which operations could take place, the intersecting bands of enemy automatic fire and the great number of mines. These difficulties and dangers, instead of deterring any men, instead of deterring any men to patrol, served to act as a proof to the adventurous spirit and fine fighting and leadership ability of Lieutenant Cline. His excellent work in night patrols, both of the reconnaissance and combat nature, led to rapid recognition of his ability and he was soon advanced to a staff sergeant.

As a staff sergeant, he often assumed the responsibilities of a platoon in the absence of sufficient commissioned officers. As a platoon sergeant and leader, his excellent work was further noticed. During the bitterest counterattack the enemy undertook upon our positions on April 23 February 1944, Lieutenant Cline found himself in the midst of it. Well in the lead of his platoon he carried out every order to its last detail. Not only did he direct his platoon, but he maintained his own fire line about the right. He was seen with three different weapons that day. Upon a mission gave out for one, he picked up another. The counterattack was successful, and considerable credit was given to the outstanding work of Lieutenant Cline's platoon and the inspiring qualities of their leader.
At the breakthrough from ANZIO, the company to which Lieutenant MUHLY was assigned had to cross a railroad near Highway # 7 on the way to COLD, Italy. Air from Fort Bragg VI tanks made progress at the time almost impossible. Lieutenant MUHLY opened fire with a sniper's rifle at the tank nearest his platoon, and drew its attention long enough to permit his men to pass.

On 23 August 1944, the 13th Infantry Regiment participated in the amphibious operations against the southern coast of France. Lieutenant MUHLY, then a staff sergeant, was an outstanding figure from the very first day of fighting on French soil. His ability, his patient instruction of his men in all phases of fighting the enemy, his skill in imparting the results of his keen observation and experience to his men, inspired his platoon to follow their patient and almost aggressive sergeant in the swift chase of the enemy in mid-summer heat on oppressively dusty roads.

... and later, when weather and terrain were less favorable to speedy action, Lieutenant MUHLY distinguished himself as a patient, understanding and inspiring leader. He made the most of every free moment to instruct his men in the skills of the enemy and to impress upon them the utter need of destruction of the enemy by beating him at his own game of tenacious, armed fighting. His constant instructions and "pointers" played a major part in molding his platoon into a wise and effective fighting force, which, under his leadership (often assured during the frequent scarcity of sufficient commissioned personnel), inflicted heavy casualties upon the enemy.

In many cases Lieutenant MUHLY as an enlisted man was obliged to take over as platoon leader, and in every case did a fine piece of work. At ANZIO, France, such a responsibility fell upon him, fighting here was hard, and terrain made every operation extremely difficult; however, Lieutenant MUHLY assumed an important role and succeeded in every mission.

... on one occasion he had to clear a patch of woods that was stubbornly held by the enemy. The only approach to this patch of woods was over an open field, and as Lieutenant MUHLY led his men over this exposed position he came under terrific enemy fire. Lieutenant MUHLY, still staff sergeant at the time, deployed his men in a defensive position, and then directed a 4.2 mortar concentration into the enemy lines. Because of this concealment offered by the woods, Lieutenant MUHLY had to direct the mortars by sound. The success he achieved at this was definitely established when he finally occupied the woods. Civilian reports that forty dead Kraut had been evacuated as a result of the mortar concentration.

Soon afterward, Lieutenant MUHLY was commissioned a 2d Lieutenant. During the fight for the Vessey mountains he indicated quickly enough his merit as an officer. His fighting spirit, speed of action, good decisions, and positive manner, won him the unquestionable respect of his men. Sustaining a wound during the fight through the Toccoa mountains, Lieutenant M.R.I. was hospitalized, but returned to his platoon at 2100 hours, Truce, just before the final phase of the battle for control.

At 0100 hours he prevented his platoon from being possibly cut to pieces by enemy machine gun fire. As he led his men through this sector a burst opened fire from the right flanks. Lieutenant M.R.I. ran in the direction of the machine gun and wiped out the position.

Lieutenant M.R.I. assumed command of Company "G", 15th Infantry, about this time and carried on with the same purpose as any other responsibility with which he has been entrusted. Fighting in this sector was bitter, and Company "G" bore its share. During the enemy's powerful counterattack in the area 15th Infantry, Truce, on 20 January 1944, Company "G", under Lieutenant M.R.I.'s inspired leadership and guidance, played a major role in crushing the enemy's attempts despite the fact that this depleted company needed, in its sector, an enemy three times its strength and bolstered by armor.

Lieutenant M.R.I. now holds the rank of 1st Lieutenant, with every indication of further advancement. His work has continually been of superior quality and his accomplishments have merited constant recognition. His capacity for instructing his men in all the necessary elements of fighting the enemy, which he himself achieved the hard way, contributed to the success of his company in battle to a higher degree, even, than his own singular bravery.
