Comments: I have just seen Phillip Noyce's remake of "The Quiet American" originally made in the 1950's (I think) starring Audie Murphy and Michael Redgrave. I had recently re-read Green's novel and wondered where I could find the Murphy/Redgrave version on video - not realising that the 2002 version was on the way. I told my 16 year old son earlier on today about Audie Murphy (I sat wide eyed through "To Hell and Back" when it was released) and the fact that he was the most highly decorated soldier in the US Army during the Second World War. I visited the site to see what reference there was to "The Quiet American" and am determined to track down a copy to see how it compares. An amazing piece of casting - I can visualise Audie Murphy as Alden Pyle. A great tribute - thanks.

When I became old enough to fully understand who he was and what he had accomplished, his stature, in my eyes, grew to legendary proportions. His life was cut short way, way to soon. My family & I have vacationed in Washington many times over the years and we always have to go to Arlington to visit Audie's grave. God doesn't make them like that anymore. My dad passed away when I was only 7 yrs. old. I thank The Good Lord there were real heros like Audie around for me.

Comments: I am a 33rd Degree Mason from the Valley of Tucson. Audie Murphy was a great American, to bad he didn't live to recive the 33rd degree in person. His actions both before becoming a Mason and afterward, earned that high award.

Comments: I taught myself to read by trying to read "To Hell and Back." It was a book, not a comic. Disturbed my left leaning teachers! Thank you Audi, for all of the gifts you gave me.

Comments: There is no greater hero than Audie Murphy. But to some extent there have been many thousands of Audie Murphy's in our nation's history. We pass them on the street nearly every day and never know it.

I'm sure that Lt. Murphy would agree.

Comments: My SGT Audie Murphy is SFC Brenda B. Webber. She is dedicated to the U.S.Army and the service in Korea for peace. She takes a good care of her soldiers including me. She did a mom's job and a soldier's job. As a section supervisor and a clinical NCO, she did a good job for patients-care. She is an honorable SGT Audie Murphy. This is why she is my SGT Audie Murphy.
